

AMY GOGARTY

Amy is a former ATCMS pupil with two and half years teaching experience. She began learning tin whistle from the age of seven at ATCMS.

Amy has always been an active participant in events in ATCMS. She was a member of the Andersonstown Traditional Orchestra conducted by Neil Martin and she helps out in festivals during the year by playing 'Music on the Metro'. She passed her Grade 8 tin whistle with Distinction in March 2018. She has also played from age eight until completing her A Level Music, combining traditional Irish tin whistle and classical violin for her A level performance.

Amy has played in many interesting places including the Titanic Centre, Westport, Bundoran, Gweedore and Disney World Florida! Amy loves playing in trad sessions, especially on Tuesdays at the Parador.

Her favourite group is Lúnasa. She feels that their modern melodies catch your ear instantly. Her favourite musician (and idol) is Kevin Crawford who plays whistles and flute in Lúnasa.
